JAMES F. CAMPBELL, formerly of the Johnstonville, proposes to start an independent daily newspaper in John-sont.

The Somersets Demat to-day appears in full size. It readers no doubt will be pleased to receive it in its new and handsome dress as in days of yore.

We think it is now time two months having elapsed since the fire, the pa-ments should be made.

It is not immediately returned to me, he may find himself lodged in the dogs' bed.

T. H. MARSHALL, of the "People's Drug Store," begs leave to inform his friends and patrons, that he is now ready to offer a choice lot of fresh goods, at the usual prices.

LIEUT. Alex. Ogle, a graduate of the West Point Military Academy, of the year

1872, is now home on a visit looking half deadly. He expects to be assigned to service now on service in the Territory of Arizona.

Work on W. J. Baer's new building at the Barnet House is being pushed with great vigor. If we are not greatly misled we will be pleased to see you around of reckoning the next it is safely under roof.

etc., etc.

Mark lay while the sun shines." This old adage is being promptly adopted by the farmers throughout the country: since the party of the people have espoused and fled to the support of Horace Greeley, to come for aid and subscribe for the "Herald," so that they may become thoroughly indoctrinated Republcan principles, and those of doubtful character, represented by the "Daily News."

There is now a want of coal for any steam-generators, steam-boilers, etc., at the factory at Axel's Mill, south east of Lemont. Mr. Davis, a practical man from Johnstonville, does the bringing and the platform is now filled with coal, and good reason of reckoning the factory is safely under roof.
